WHERE LEADERS AND ENTREPRENEURS ARE NURTURED

The picturesque 100-acre world-class campus of IIMB in Bangalore, India’s Silicon Valley, inspires and equips students to deliver significant social impact through entrepreneurship and innovation.

» IIMB is the only Indian Business School to feature in the Financial Times Executive Education 2015 Top 50 Rankings.

» IIMB is India’s only business school in the 27-member Global Network of Advanced Management (GNAM) – a network of top schools such as INSEAD, LSE and Yale.

» IIMB has 150 faculty members, including visiting and adjunct faculty, who are actively engaged in policy formulation, research, case writing and consulting.

» Having embraced disruptive technology (MOOCs), IIMB is India’s first management school to partner with edX as a contributing member to deliver high-quality MOOCs from this year.

» The NS Raghavan Center for Entrepreneurial Learning at IIMB incubates start-ups and provides free mentoring to budding entrepreneurs. This year, 240 entrepreneurs took advantage of our open mentoring program.

» IIMB has student exchange partnerships with over 114 global B-schools, case study publishing partnerships with Harvard Business Publishing and the Ivey Business School, and joint research partnerships with Ho Chi Minh National Academy of Politics and Public Administration (HCMA) Hanoi, Vietnam.

» Along with Toulouse Business School, France, IIMB launched India’s first Executive General Management Programme in Aerospace and Aviation Management this year.

Global Networks: Organizations and People
Welcome to Bengaluru, India for the 2015 Annual Meeting of the Academy of International Business!

For many of you, traveling to India for a meeting, to teach, to consult, or to visit family is commonplace. I am embarrassed to say that this is my first visit to this great country. So understandably, this also explains why I am so happy to be here with you this year, in this country. Like many of you, I have read about, studied, and wondered about India for so many years. I can’t come to explain my excitement about finally being here.

Putting together an excellent annual meeting is the result of the efforts of countless individuals.

First, we would like to thank our local hosts. No matter how much interest we have in a country, or how strong our own organization may be, we cannot do an annual conference without a local host. This year we are blessed that IIM Bangalore, one of India’s top business schools, is hosting our meeting. We thus thank Director Sushil Vachani and our local host Prof. S. Raghunath and their teams for all the support they have been giving us to put together this annual meeting.

Every large endeavor of this level of complexity requires both vision, to make a memorable conference program, and attention to detail, to ensure that it all comes together in the end. In the person of our Program Chair, Ram Mudambi, and our Pre-conference Program Coordinator, Charles Dhanaraj, we are lucky to have men of vision and attention to detail. Both have been working diligently, along with the support of the many track chairs and consortium leaders, to put together a fantastic program for all of us. Our program this year is comprised of 121 paper sessions, 6 special sessions, and 33 panels across 15 tracks, including two focused on Research Methods in IB and Teaching Methods in IB. We are expecting over 800 AIB members to be in attendance.

This year, we continue with some old traditions and are starting what we hope will be some new ones.

As always, our preconference activities include the Doctoral Consortium, Junior Faculty Consortium, and the JIBS Workshop. This year I am proud to report we are beginning a new tradition of visiting a third sector, social organization to give our members a chance to go beyond the walls of the Leela Palace and see how innovative organizations are dealing with some of the challenges facing India (Inaugural Social Sector Visit, Friday, June 26th at 2:30pm). Another important pre conference innovation this year is the AIB Research Capacity Workshop organized by Professors Jose de la Torre, Rishikesha Krishnan, and Sougata Ray.

We cordially invite all of our new members to our New Member Tea, Saturday June 27th, 3:30pm-4:30pm. It is a good way to get to meet members of the AIB board in a small informal environment.

The board and I would also like to take this opportunity to remember and honor three of our members who passed away this year, Alan M. Rugman, Kwok Leung and Warren J. Keegan. Very different in their interests and demeanors, all were world-class scholars who made lasting contributions to the field of international business. As we come together for this marvelous conference, we miss them, and mourn their loss.

Our annual meetings are where we share our latest research, learn what our colleagues are working on, how the field of IB is changing and as well as how else it should be changing. It is where we reconnect with our colleagues and relish our community. I look forward to reconnecting with old friends and meeting new ones. Welcome to Bengaluru.

Nakiye Boyacigiller
AIB President
Dear Members of the Academy of International Business,

On behalf of the Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore (IIMB), I would like to extend a very warm welcome to you. We are delighted to host the 2015 Annual Conference of the Academy of International Business.

IIMB is proud of its close connection with AIB. Professor S. Raghunath of IIMB, who is the Chair of the Local Host Committee for this conference, is also the Chair of the Academy’s India Chapter. AIB India’s 2013 annual conference was held here in Bengaluru.

The theme for AIB 2015, “Global Networks: Organizations and People”, responds to three mega trends—the rise of trade in activities, knowledge-intensive intangibles and emerging markets. Bengaluru is probably one of the best cities in the world to observe the confluence of these mega trends. It is a vibrant center for both the creation and export of knowledge-intensive intangibles in the information technology and biotechnology industries, among others. It also symbolizes the opportunity presented by the rise of entrepreneurship in emerging markets, captured in the billion dollar valuations of home-grown e-commerce companies such as Flipkart.

Bengaluru is home to some of India’s most dynamic non-governmental organizations, such as Akshaya Patra, which fights hunger and keeps children in school by feeding 1.4 million school children each day, and Agastya, which sparks curiosity by taking innovative science education to hundreds of thousands of poor children across India.

IIMB’s strategic emphasis draws on the tremendous advantages provided by our location in Bengaluru. Our center for entrepreneurial learning is an integral part of the city’s vibrant entrepreneurial eco-system. We maintain close connections with Bengaluru’s IT and life sciences industries, its world-class research organizations and dynamic non-governmental organizations. All this provides an unparalleled opportunity for our students, faculty and visitors. We have chosen to embrace technology to enhance the impact of our educational programs. As the first Indian management school to become a participating member of edX, the Harvard-MIT joint venture, we will begin launching several MOOCs this summer.

Bengaluru is one of India’s fastest growing major cities. It is demographically diverse and presents rich cultural activities. I hope that in addition to enjoying the exciting conference activities, you will find the time to visit some of Bengaluru’s major tourist attractions, including the IIM Bangalore campus.

With best wishes,

Sushil Vachani
Director, IIM Bangalore
Dear AIB Colleagues,

A very warm welcome to Bengaluru, the IT capital of India and to the 56th Annual Conference of the Academy of International Business!

This year’s theme “Global Networks: Organizations and People” is particularly appropriate to our emerging market location – AIB’s first foray into India. The city hosts one of the largest concentrations of multinational subsidiaries in the world and they operate a complex international network of organizational pipelines. In tandem, individuals, many from the Indian diaspora, flit in and out of the city, connecting it with locations all around the globe through their personal networks. These global networks foster connectivity and are the conduits that enable our modern knowledge economy to function. Indeed, the knowledge creation and innovation that they foster is humanity’s best hope for a prosperous and sustainable future.

Many papers in this year’s program address this theme. A novel element this year is an explicit track focusing on economic geography / regional science, headlined by a Showcase Panel co-sponsored by the Regional Science Association International (RSAI). Economic geographers, regional scientists and international business scholars increasingly study the same phenomena and collaboration and cross-fertilization among these fields can lead to exciting new insights. Please welcome our colleagues from these sister disciplines to AIB. Perhaps you will find new co-authors and audiences for your research!

A second feature of the program that I would like to highlight is the ‘Yellow Brick Road’ (and so colored!) of Scholarship in Practice sessions that runs through Sunday and Monday. These sessions feature a combination of academics and practitioners from both business and government, encouraging us to think of rigor and relevance as complements rather than substitutes. These sessions feature senior representatives from major corporations like Unilever, Accenture, Citibank, Cisco, Narayana Health, Infosys and Wipro, government departments like the Indian Ministry of Statistics and NGOs like the Carbon Disclosure Project.

As this program goes to press, nearly 800 individuals have registered for the conference and will be able to choose from 2 plenary sessions, 6 special sessions, 33 panels, 72 competitive paper sessions, 49 interactive paper sessions and many special events.

The quality of submissions has been extraordinarily high and with so many quality submissions, the track chairs faced a daunting task in narrowing their acceptances to the allocated targets. Conference attendees will find a cornucopia of international business scholarship and practice on offer, so their only problem may be one of choosing what to attend. In most time slots the full conference attendees will be able to choose from 13 parallel sessions of panels, competitive and interactive session papers.

Let me highlight the events awaiting you at the 2015 AIB Conference.

- Pre-conference Consortiums. This year’s pre-conference offers workshops for doctoral students and junior faculty, each with a distinguished group of faculty panelists. The AIB/Sheth Foundation Doctoral Student Consortium is chaired by Stewart Miller and Shameen Prashantham. The Junior Faculty Consortium is chaired by Ruth Aguilera and Ravee Chittoor.

- JIBS/AIB Paper Development Workshop. The 12th Annual JIBS PDW is chaired once again by Petra Christmann with John Cantwell as Co-Chair. It will provide scholars with developmental feedback on their current research projects in international business studies.

- Research Capacity Workshop. A new pre-conference activity this year, led by Jose de la Torre, Rishikesh Krishnan, and Sougata Ray, this workshop focuses on strengthening the doctoral program and improving research culture in the developing country business schools.

- New Members Welcome Tea. Meet the AIB President, Nakiye Boyacigiller, and other Board members in a special welcome to all members attending the AIB conference for the first time.

- Opening Ceremony. Our conference will start with the traditional lighting of the lamp of knowledge by faculty from our host school, the Indian Institute of Management, Bengaluru. This will be followed by introductions to the program, and the recognition of this year’s Educator of the Year, Nick Binedell. Our keynote speaker and Executive of Year, Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw, is the first woman to be so recognized by the AIB. She is the Chairman and Managing Director of Biocon and will speak on the opportunities and challenges facing the biopharmaceutical industry in emerging markets, many of which reflect the conference theme. As in the past years, commemorative t-shirts will be available again for the first 300 attendees. Be sure to show up early and claim a t-shirt as they are sure to be prized items again this year.

- AIB Fellows Plenary will follow directly on from the Opening Ceremony and will address the conference theme of “Global Networks: Organizations and People” in the context of global biopharmaceutical industry. Chaired by Sri Zaheer, it will feature two scholars who have made central contributions to the study of innovation and emerging markets, John Cantwell and Torben Pedersen. I will serve as moderator of this session. The Presidential Reception will follow.

- Fellows Café. Early risers will every morning have the opportunity for a casual discussion with one of the AIB Fellows before the start of the main program.

- UNCTAD Sessions. UNCTAD will launch its 2015 World Investment Report at the AIB conference. Hafiz Mirza and Axelle Giroud will introduce the report, and Peter Buckley, Sarianna Lundan and I will provide commentaries. Join the experts behind the report for the launch event on Tuesday (session 3.2.1). Also consider attending the UNCTAD-WAIB session on “MNCs Gender Equality and Development” on Monday (session 2.3.3).

- AIB Fellows Eminent Scholar Award. W. Richard Scott will be honored with this award and will provide a plenary keynote speech on “IT & IB: Institutional Theory and International Business” (session 2.2.1 on Monday). Commentaries will be provided Yves Doz and Arie Lewin. Paul Beamish, the Dean of the AIB Fellows, will chair the session.

- Special Executive Plenary. Harish Manwani, Chairman of Hindustan Lever, and former COO of Unilever will be joined by Dr. Ashutosh Raghuvanshi, Deputy Chairman and Group CEO, Narayana Health. They will address the challenges of balancing competitive advantage with social responsibility and sustainable practices, particularly in emerging markets. Ravi Ramamurti will moderate this session.

- Peter J. Buckley and Mark Casson AIB Dissertation Award Presentations. The five finalists for this year’s award are Perttu Kähäri (Aalto University), Heeyon Kim (National University of Singapore), Catherine Magelsen (London Business School), Carlos Adrian Rodriguez (INCAE), and Michael A. Sartor (Western University). Join session 2.3.1 to meet researchers likely to shape future research agendas of the AIB.

- 2015 JIBS Decade Award. The winners of the award are Klaus Meyer and Mike Peng for their paper, “Probing theoretically into Central and Eastern Europe: transactions, resources, and institutions.” Following their retrospective, commentaries will be provided by Mark Peterson, Tatiana Kostova and G. Tomas M. Hult. John Cantwell chairs this session 3.3.1.

- On Monday night, we will enjoy the conference Gala Event at the Tamarind Tree, a charming venue with antique doorways, cobble stoned pathways, beautiful trees, and elegant pavilions. Our hosts have put together an exquisite Indian Night, featuring art, music, a craft bazaar, and of course, samples of the delectable Indian cuisine.

- Lunches and Coffee Breaks. The coffee breaks and lunches, which are a special and unique feature of AIB, provide members the opportunities to discuss new ideas with old friends and extend your network to new colleagues from around the world – and from our sister disciplines.

- AIB Business Meeting and Awards Ceremony. Don’t miss this important wrap-up of the conference with executive reports and award recognitions, and an outlook to our 2016 conference in New Orleans (session 3.5.1).

- AIB Awards/Farewell Reception. The reception is sponsored by Palgrave Macmillan, publishers of JIBS, in honor of all the winners of awards being given out at the AIB conference. This is a time for celebration and making plans for future endeavors with colleagues and friends, old and new.

These are just a few of the many stimulating sessions.

Putting together this program has been a truly collaborative effort. This program would not have been possible without the 931 submissions by authors from 62 countries. The challenge of reviewing so many papers in a short time span was accomplished by 1032 reviewers who provided valuable input to authors and track chairs. My sincere thanks go to all authors and reviewers.

The Fellows have organized the two plenary sessions that are sure to be outstanding, and they will meet members for open ended informal discussions in the Fellow’s Café each morning. The Fellows’ efforts in creating these opportunities for engaging with senior scholars in our community are highly appreciated.
The track chairs had to make tough decisions and constructed the many interesting sessions offered this year. It was a joy working with this group of talented and committed colleagues as we pulled the program together. Special thanks go to each one: Kwok Leung, Erkko Autio, Mary Teagarden, Susan Mudambi, Simona Lammarino, Lucia Piscitello, L. Felipe Monteiro, Siva Viswanathan, Akbar Zaheer, Gurneeta Singh, Ronaldo Parente, Florian Taube, Bjorn Ambos, Nandini Rajagopalan, Nan Jia, Michael Witt, Rene Belderbos, David Reeb and Andreas Schotter.

When mentioning the Track Chairs, I would like to make special mention of Kwok Leung, who took seriously ill during the finalization process of his track. In spite of his severe condition, he continued to work and finalized his track in good time. It is with great sadness that I inform the membership of his recent, very untimely passing. I am sure that the AIB membership is one with me as we send our deepest condolences to his family.

Our local hosts had done so much to make our conference in Bengaluru memorable. Thanks to the Indian Institute of Management, Bengaluru, and very special thanks to Dean S. Raghu Nath, the local host chair who was instrumental in arranging so many special events.

Throughout the process, the AIB Executive Board members have provided valuable guidance. Charles Dhanaraj undertook all the coordination of pre-conference activities. All Executive Board members under the gentle guiding hand of our President, Nakiye Boyacigiller, provided valuable advice and support.

Many of you likely corresponded with Thomas J. Hannigan, my assistant, who handled hundreds of emails and in general made himself indispensable; and supported us from Silicon Valley after his move from Philadelphia. I also thank my colleagues at the Fox School for your support — and your patience when other aspects of my work suffered as my mind was occupied with AIB.

I want to thank each and every one at the AIB Secretariat at Michigan State University. The entire team there has been a source of boundless enthusiasm and constant, instantaneous support. At the helm of this exceptional team, AIB is fortunate to have Tunga Kiyak, who is the ultimate professional. With his eye for detail and his intimate knowledge of every aspect of the conference, it is a simple statement of fact that without him, organizing the conference would be virtually impossible. In addition, he has the patience and good humor to put up with and train a new Program Chair every year. So Tunga, I would like to add my most sincere thanks to all those recorded by many Program Chairs before me — thanks for all you do for AIB.

Finally, I would like to thank the AIB membership for giving me the honor and pleasure to serve as Program Chair. I hope that this year’s program will open new horizons for you.

A pioneer of the biotechnology industry in India and the head of the country’s leading biotechnology enterprise, Biocon, Ms. Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw is a highly respected businesswoman. Ms. Mazumdar-Shaw, a first generation entrepreneur, has made her country proud with a globally recognized biopharmaceutical enterprise that is committed to innovation and affordability in delivering world-class therapeutics to patients globally. As the first woman brew master of India, with a pioneering spirit to make a difference, she leveraged her knowledge of fermentation science to pursue the road less taken and build an innovative biopharmaceutical company. Today, Biocon is India’s largest biopharmaceutical enterprise and the only publicly listed biotechnology company. It is credited with developing an indigenous recombinant human insulin based on proprietary fermentation technology, which is now available in over 50 countries. Under her leadership Biocon has become a well-recognized global brand.

She is highly respected in the corporate world and has been named among TIME magazine’s ‘100 Most Influential People in the World.’ She has also been featured in Fierce Biotech’s list of ‘World’s 25 Most Influential People in Biopharma’ and is recognized among Forbes ‘100 Most Powerful Women’ globally. U.S.-based Chemical Heritage Foundation recently conferred Ms. Mazumdar-Shaw with the ‘2014 Othmer Gold Medal’ and Germany-based Kiel Institute for the World Economy awarded her its coveted ‘2014 Global Economy Prize’ for Business.

Ms. Mazumdar-Shaw is also an Independent Member of the Board of Infosys, a global leader in consulting, technology and outsourcing solutions. She is also the Chairperson of the Board of Governors of the Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore.

In addition to her formal qualifications of a Brewmaster from Ballarat University, Australia; Ms. Mazumdar-Shaw holds several other honorary degrees from renowned international universities like Trinity College, Dublin; University of Abertay, Dundee; University of Glasgow; Heriot-Watt University, Edinburgh etc. Ms. Shaw is the recipient of other prestigious awards, including the Nikkei Asia Prize for Regional Growth and the ‘Veuve Clicquot Initiative For Economic Development for Asia’ Award.

Her most cherished awards are the two National Civilian Awards, PADMA SHRI (1989) and PADMA BHUSHAN (2005), presented to her by the President of India for her innovative efforts in Industrial Biotechnology. She is also the Honorary Consul of Ireland in Bangalore.

Nick Binedell
Founding Director and Dean of the
Gordon Institute of Business Science of the University of Pretoria

Nick Binedell was the Founding Director and Dean of the Gordon Institute of Business Science of the University of Pretoria.

After a career in business, including a period as a general manager of a division of GEC (South Africa), he began a career in academia. He completed his Ph.D at the University of Washington in Seattle, where he was a Boeing Scholar (1983 – 1986) after which he returned to take up a position as a senior lecturer at the Wits Business School. In 1992 he was appointed as Director of the Wits Business School and held that position for 2 terms of 3 years.

In 1998 he was invited to establish a new business school for the University of Pretoria to be based in Johannesburg, South Africa. His mandate was to seek to establish a world class business school that would meet the needs of the 21st century for South African business and business leaders. GIBS has grown over the past 15 years to be one of South Africa’s leading business schools and offers a comprehensive and wide range of academic and executive programmes. In addition to research and thought leadership the school has focussed significantly on partnering with leading South African companies to ensure their continued competitiveness in a fast changing country, continent and global economy.

GIBS has been ranked in the Top 50 for executive education by the London Financial Times for the past 8 years and delivers executive programmes for its partner companies in over 20 countries around the world. It has a significant MBA programme (plus 300 students p.a.) and a strong DBA / Ph.D programme and a number of Centres that reflect the dynamics of the South African economy and broader society. The school prides itself in being comprehensive in nature and its outreach programmes include working with high school leaders, social entrepreneurs, government departments and a variety of other important communities. GIBS is also well known for its innovative conferences and Forums as well as off the record dialogues for business and government to engage on key policy matters. GIBS is international in nature and it attracts a number of visiting Professors. GIBS is also active in the rest of the African continent, running programmes in West Africa, East Africa and elsewhere.

Professor Binedell’s key area of expertise is in the area of strategic leadership with particular focus on strategy in complex environments. He is a frequent public speaker in South Africa and elsewhere, is a visiting lecturer at the Rotterdam School of Management (for the past 18 years) and has been a consultant to companies like General Electric and MTN.

His early background included extensive travel and by the time he was 10, he had lived with his family in 6 countries including South Africa, Zimbabwe, the United Kingdom, Germany, Yemen and Kenya.

He is currently a Professor of Strategy and Leadership at the Gordon Institute of Business Science and is at present a Visiting Professor at the London Business School.
W. Richard Scott is Professor Emeritus of Sociology, with courtesy appointments in the Graduate School of Business, Graduate School of Education, School of Engineering (Senior Research Scientist), and School of Medicine, Stanford University. He has spent his entire career at Stanford.

He received his B.A and M.A. from the University of Kansas and his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago, where he worked with Peter M. Blau, and with whom he co-authored a pioneering text in the fledgling field of organizational sociology (Formal Organizations, 1962; reissued as Stanford Business Classic, 2003).

Scott is probably best known for two theoretical contributions. In the 1960s he created a conceptual schema cross-classifying rational/natural and closed/open perspectives on organizations. This framework has proved useful to two generations of scholars as a guide to interpreting the evolution of organization theory (Organizations and Organizing: Rational, Natural and Open System Perspectives, 2007 [6th ed., with G.F. Davis]).

Later, in the 1990s, he devised an encompassing framework that incorporated the views of regulative (economic and political science models), normative (sociological models), and cultural-cognitive (anthropological and cognitive psychology models) to provide a rich and thick description of the elements involved in institutions. This “Pillars” framework has proved to be of value to both micro and macro scholars in unpacking the intricacies of institutional systems (Institutions and Organizations: Ideas, Interests, and Identities, 2014 [4th ed.]).

Most of Scott’s empirical work has focused on (1) the distinctive structures and processes of professional organizations and (2) the effects of institutional environments on organization fields, and organization structures and processes. Principal publications in these and related areas include: Metropolis and Region (with O.D. Duncan et al., 1960); Evaluation and the Exercise of Authority (with S.M. Dornbusch, 1975); Hospital Structure and Performance (with A.B. Flood, 1987); Organizational Environments: Ritual and Rationality (with J.W. Meyer, ed., 1983); Institutional Change and Healthcare Organizations: From Professional Dominance to Managed Care (with M. Ruef, P. Mendel and C.A. Caronna, 2000); Between Movement and Establishment: Organizations Advocating for Youth (with M. McLaughlin et al., 2009); and Global Projects: Institutional and Political Challenges (with R. E. Levitt and R.J. Orr, ed. 2011).

Scott has also been active throughout his entire career in the training and mentoring of graduate and post-graduate research scholars. He served as the Director of the NIMH Research Training Program on Organizations and Mental Health at Stanford from 1972-1989, and as Director of the Stanford Center for Organization Research from 1988-1996.

He is a natural leader and has led the management team to drive NH’s reach in 17 cities across India. Under his leadership NH set its footprint also in international healthcare arena with HCCI (Health City Cayman Island) in Cayman Island.

Dr. Raghuvanshi did his M.Ch. in cardiac surgery from the University of Bombay after completing M.B.B.S and M.S in General Surgery. He has worked at several renowned hospitals including Bombay Hospital in Mumbai, Apollo Hospitals in Chennai and Manipal Heart Foundation, Bengaluru before joining NH.
The China Europe International Business School (CEIBS) cordially invites applications for full-time faculty positions (all ranks are open) in Organizational Behaviour, Human Resource Management, Marketing, Finance, Accounting, Economics, Operations Management, Strategy, and Entrepreneurship. Successful candidates are expected to teach related courses for MBA and EMBA students, and to be active in academic research. The working language is English.

Ideal candidates must hold or expect a PhD degree in the above-mentioned or related disciplines, have a demonstrated capacity or potential for high-calibre research, and a strong commitment to teaching excellence. Preference will be given to those who have relevant teaching experience, especially with MBA and executive students.

Compensation is internationally competitive and commensurate with qualifications. In addition to the base salary, the school provides adequate housing allowance, education allowance for international schooling of faculty’s children, international private medical insurance as well as private pension plan. At the current exchange rate, the full annual compensation package for assistant professor rank starts from US$160,000. Additionally, the school offers generous research funding, teaching load reduction/bonus for high-calibre research outcomes, and reduced teaching load for assistant professors.

To apply, please forward your cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, relevant evidence of teaching effectiveness, and samples of published or working papers to Ms. Daisy Li, Senior Manager of the Dean’s Office, at ldaisy@ceibs.edu. Applications will be kept confidential and reviewed until the positions are filled. As Dr. Klaus MEYER, Professor of Strategy and International Business at CEIBS and Vice President of the Academy of International Business, will attend the AIB Conference in Bengaluru, India, informal meetings may be arranged there if possible.

The Annual conference of the Association of Japanese Business Studies will be held at Matthan Sterling's Mac Hotel. AJBS conference requires a separate registration from the AIB conference.

FRIDAY, JUNE 26 - 14:30-17:00

NGO Social Sector Visits

AIB members will be visiting a worthwhile non governmental organization to see first hand how innovative social organizations are dealing with some of India’s key challenges. Participants will need to choose one of the following two organizations to visit: (1) Association for Promoting Social Action (APSA), a crisis intervention center that supports children in distress: child laborers, street children, victims of abuse, trafficked and abandoned children; (2) Concerned for Working Children (CWC), a Nobel Peace Prize nominated organization working to empower working children to organize themselves to identify and solve problems.

Pre-registration is required to attend the NGO visit. Interested participants should contact Susan Mudambi at smudambi@temple.edu.

Professor S. Raghunath of Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore, the Local Program Chair for the AIB 2015 conference will be accompanying participants to a corporate tour of Wipro Ltd. The bus will leave from Leela Palace at 8:30am, and return at 2pm.

Pre-registration is required (through the tours page on the AIB 2015 website).

The AIB Fellows consist of distinguished AIB members recognized for their contributions to the scholarly development of the field of international business. The AIB Fellows participate in the activities of the AIB by choosing the International Executive of the Year and the International Educator of the Year. They also organize one or more panel sessions at the AIB annual meeting each year — often the first Plenary Panel.

Learn More about Becoming an Institutional Member

Your school can join the prestigious schools above by becoming an institutional member of the AIB. Additional information on the benefits of becoming an institutional member and instructions on how to become one can be found on our website at http://aib.msu.edu/membership/.
AIB currently has 18 chapters established around the world. With the goal of to facilitate networking as well as the exchange of knowledge at a more local level, these chapters engage in a variety of activities from organizing regional conferences to publishing journals or book series. To learn more about our chapters, visit the AIB Chapter booth at the Exhibit Hall or contact your regional chapter chair. See the “Meet Your Chapter” page for scheduled times during AIB 2015 when you can meet and talk to your regional chapter chair and members from your region. AIB would like to thank the chapter chairs listed below for their hard work and their institutions for the support they have provided to the chapters over the years.

Technological and institutional changes have increasingly enabled companies to reconfigure their global value chain and combine the benefits arising from specialization with location advantages. As a consequence, knowledge-intensive activities have been typically centralized in the home country or offshore to other advanced economies, while manufacturing and other more standardized activities have been offshore to emerging countries mainly to exploit cost advantages (Mudambi, 2007; Contractor et al., 2010). However, recent developments are challenging this traditional separation between advanced and emerging economies as host of knowledge- and production-intensive activities, respectively.

Within this context, recent research has started to emphasize the role of intraorganizational relationships and linkages among the different parts of the value chain. In particular, innovative and productive activities are affected by strong interdependencies and complementarities (Berry, 2014), and for some companies the co-location of R&D and manufacturing is critical for development and innovation (Alcacer and Delgado, 2014). Hence, the loss of manufacturing capabilities might also imply the reduction of innovation competencies (Pisano and Shih, 2012). The increasing awareness of these interdependencies explains the recent incentives from policy makers in advanced countries that aim to promote their manufacturing activities. These issues pose major challenges for scholars working not only in the field of International Business, but also in areas such as Economic Geography, Operations and Supply Chain Management and International Economics.
Papers are invited for the topics listed below. Papers in other related areas are welcome as well.

- What are the consequences of breaking up the global value chain and which possibilities is this offering?
- Under what conditions is it beneficial to keep the different business activities in the same location rather than splitting and decentralize them across companies and countries’ boundaries? What are the organizational challenges?
- What are the benefits and costs associated with offshoring? Are there any hidden costs of offshoring? Who is benefitting from offshoring? Is it society at large, customers, employees? What are spill-over effects of offshoring?
- What are the macro-economic and institutional conditions explaining the new international fragmentation and geographical dispersion of the value chains? How has the relevance of location factors changed and affected the new era of offshoring and back-shoring phenomena?
- What are the challenges for policy makers? What can be done in order to promote manufacturing activities in advanced countries?

Submission guidelines
Participants who wish to present their research at the conference are invited to submit an extended abstract not exceeding 1,000 words through the conference website no later than September 1, 2015. At least one author must register for the conference. If more than one author presents the paper, each presenter must register. Further submission guidelines can be found at the conference website http://valuechain.unibocconi.eu or by writing to valuechain@unibocconi.it. Notification of paper acceptance will be communicated by September 14, 2015.

Timeline
September 1, 2015: Extended abstract submission
September 14, 2015: Acceptance decision
September 28, 2015: Early registration deadline for conference
CALL FOR PAPERS

The Locus of Innovation
In the Globally Integrated Enterprise

“We are at an inflection point, with public and private institutions around the world being disrupted. Global integration, which is driving this disruption, is the new playing field, and innovation is the way to win this game.”

Samuel J. Palmisano, former Chairman, IBM, Rethink: A Path to the Future, 2014

Program Chair: Charles Dhanaraj, IMD, Switzerland (Charles.dhanaraj@imd.org)
Submission Deadline: January 15, 2016

The multinational enterprise (MNE) remains a central unit of analysis for international business (IB) scholars, as it represents “the most remarkable economic phenomena in the post-war period.” Yet how these MNEs have evolved over time remains a puzzle. With economic activities of the MNE crisscrossing the globe, some see the MNEs evolving into a “globally integrated enterprise.” Others stress the persisting imbalances across the countries and focus on the barriers to global integration. AIB invites you to explore this puzzle, to help us understand to what extent, and how, MNEs are leveraging global integration while simultaneously exploiting the differences.

Nowhere has the impact of such global integration felt stronger than in the arena of innovation — R&D and related activities. Mega investments in R&D by MNEs such as GE, Siemens, IBM, and others in emerging markets have been routinely reported in the business press. These make radical departure from the evolution of the MNE as the early IB scholars envisioned. Do these trends pose a challenge to the west? Are we seeing the directionality of the global flow of innovations being reversed? It is time to bring together our findings to get a better picture of the evolution of innovation within MNEs.
Innovation is the cornerstone of competitive advantage for MNEs. The slowing economic growth is forcing corporate leaders to innovate their way out of crisis and stagnation. MNEs from emerging markets infuse competitive vigor with their emphasis on frugality are stretching the scope of innovation itself beyond technology to new business models. How do these dynamics shape the way MNEs disperse and orchestrate their global innovation?

Such ‘global integration’ of innovative activities must entail knowledge sharing across different geographies, which may follow different rules of social interactions. It would also demand connecting “rule-driven behavior” in some places with “entrepreneurial behavior” in others. How can we effectively link such international knowledge pipelines? What may ease or hamper such connectivity across different locations and across different governance structures? What sort of global leaders are needed to manage this global integration?

The global integration approach to the MNEs also recognizes explicitly the role of entrepreneurship, and the hybrid organizational arrangements that MNEs have in many host countries. IB scholarship has a strong knowledge base on new venture internationalization. In recent years a critical body of literature is emerging that focuses on the linkages between the MNEs, new ventures, and industrial clusters to shed light on this innovation ecology. How do we move beyond the local knowledge spillover to the globally interconnected knowledge flows? Are MNEs critical pipelines to this innovation ecosystem?

Global integration offers significant scope in scaling social innovations. Social problems are intensely local. Be it poverty alleviation, education, drinking water, health or job creation, the issues are strongly embedded in the locale. However, in recent years non-profit organizations such as Gates Foundation, have demonstrated how to connect these local problems, develop global solutions, and apply them in a customized manner to each locale. How do we leverage concepts such as Porter’s “Shared Value” to create global solutions to local problems?

Policy is central to innovation and the global flow of knowledge. IB scholars have a unique vantage point from which they can see multiple policy regimes. With their ability to link data across geographies, they can contribute to richer observations and more robust theories. How do we refine the contours of the innovation policy regime designed for the legacy years? Are some of the global integration ideas applicable to policy innovation? What policy initiatives are needed to advance the effectiveness of the MNEs to deliver social value?

The AIB 2016 at New Orleans will give us an opportunity to explore these questions on the future of innovation and MNEs. Let the meeting of minds unleash new thinking on making global integration work, and the role of innovation within these globally integrated enterprises.

What better a place than New Orleans, which stands as a symbol of transformation, having moved from almost total destruction in the wake of Hurricane Katrina to a vibrant entrepreneurial economic center that you will experience when you arrive here! Lets explore innovation, in an innovative way, along with peers drawn from around the globe. See you in New Orleans!
The Academy of International Business is pleased to announce New Orleans as the host city for the AIB 2016 Annual Conference to take place June 27-30, 2016 at the Sheraton New Orleans. Join your colleagues for great sessions, ample networking opportunities, and a fabulous cultural experience in New Orleans where you can indulge in delicious cuisine, shop in historic neighborhoods, and dance to the music pouring into the streets.
